SVCC Presents . . . Navigating Your Life and Adversity

Consider this: "You're hired for what you can do; and you're fired for who you turn out to be."

Have you ever wondered why some seemingly glide through life and adversity, while others go through one struggle after another? What is really at work in "who we turn out to be"? More importantly . . . can we influence this?

Please join us as internationally acclaimed author and seminar leader, Sue Mackey, presents Navigating Your Life and Adversity. Come away from this presentation with skills to help you identify, manage, and survive these turbulent times -- now and in the future.

Sue Mackey is President of The Mackey Group (TMG), an internationally recognized firm that develops and publishes core competency, soft skill based training and assessment tools for public and private sector. Her books include: "Living Well, Working Smart: Soft Skills for Success;" "Women Navigating Adversity: The Courage They Didn't Know They Had;" "Kids Navigating Life" workbooks; and the "Twelve Pillars of Success".

President's Message

As I woke to snowfall this past Sunday, I wondered, "When will spring finally happen here in our valley?" The crazy thing is, with our weather patterns, it could be THIS AFTERNOON!

With the coming of spring, we close the first quarter of our 2009 business year. I hope your business is weathering the economic storm well. Some industries are seeing a slight uptick and we're all hopeful things will improve. This seems a good time to reflect on the benefits of chamber membership, and think about taking full advantage of them to make 2009 a great year for our businesses. Check out the list on our website to see which benefits might help grow your business.

One of the best benefits for my business has been advertising in our annual Resident's Guide distributed each year to 15,000 households throughout the Snoqualmie Valley. I'm not aware of a better advertising value than this. Better yet -- advertising space is reserved for current Chamber Members only! The time for action is now as the commitment date for space in this book is April 30th. The publication is professionally done and helps position your business well, making it an even greater value to you.

When Jerry and LuAnn Iselin spoke at our February membership luncheon, one of the things they emphasized most was the importance of advertising, particularly during challenging times. Advertising professionals all confirm the wisdom in this advice... especially so, as many make the error of cutting advertising in tight budget times and damage their business' growth and sustainability.

I was excited to see a large number of new members introduced at our March luncheon with a wide array of products and services represented. Our influence and support to valley businesses continues to grow. My special thanks to our community government leaders Matt Larson, Ken Hearing, and Matt Mattson for sharing their vision and cooperation in providing a platform for rich growth to existing businesses and attraction of new business to the Snoqualmie Valley. Nothing would please us more than to see our chamber grow even stronger with increasing benefit to each of your businesses during 2009. Please share your ideas with us on how we might best deliver that benefit to you.

Warmly, Steve

Why Networking Matters

No matter how hard you work, you cannot live up to your full potential as a business owner operating in total isolation. Attending business events can accomplish key things to help you both personally and professionally:

- Educational Benefits in Networking: You will likely learn at least one new tip or strategy, or maybe an easier way of doing things. Having others to brainstorm and bounce ideas around with can save you time, money, and headaches.
- Networking Improves Your Credentials and Professional Appearance: The more serious you are about investing time into your business, the more serious others will be about your business, too.
- Networking Boosts Your Confidence and Sense of Pride: You feel more empowered and validated as a business owner when you participate in the "live" business world.
- Make New Business Contacts: The obvious benefit of networking: you will make new business connections that could lead to clients, sales, investors, and other important contacts.

Check the back cover for upcoming events and register to attend today!

Ambassador Corner

Chamber Ambassadors have been busy assisting at recent luncheons, after hours and ribbon cutting events. Thank you for all your efforts, we appreciate your help!

Committee chairs Scott Clinton and Bob Cole have tallied up the points and are ready to announce the winners of some new awards - Ambassador of the Quarter and Ambassador of the Month. Congratulations!

Ambassador of the Month

Dan Faulkner Jr., John L Scott

Born and raised on the Eastside, Dan and his wife moved to the Snoqualmie Valley from Sammamish 2 years ago. After getting his degree from the University of Washington, Dan decided to try his luck in the real estate business, and 4 years later it seems like a great match! His goal is to create long term relationships with his clients and fellow business owners, based on being as valuable as possible to his clients.

Dan thoroughly enjoys the opportunity to serve the Chamber on the Ambassador Committee. Dan's wife Bethany is currently the senior veterinarian at the Humane Society, so when they're not busy fostering animals, they're busy taking care of their own pets! They both love the Valley and what it has to offer, and are glad they made the move!

Ambassador of the Quarter

Dale Hancock of Pacific West Securities, has been named the Ambassador of the Quarter for his active role working behind the scenes at chamber events. Stop by and visit Dale at the April Membership Luncheon, where he will have an info table, congratulations!
